

Before the Federal Communications Commission
Washington, D.C. 20554

In the Matter of)
2006 Biennial Review of)	ET Docket No. 06-155
Telecommunications Regulations)

To: THE OFFICE OF ENGINEERING AND TECHNOLOGY

REPLY COMMENTS OF THE INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY INDUSTRY COUNCIL

INTRODUCTION

The Information Technology Industry Council (ITI) hereby respectfully submits this comment in response to the Commissions Public Notice announcing the initiation of the 2006 Biennial Review to eliminate regulations no longer necessary in the public interest. ITI represents the nation's leading information technology companies, including computer hardware and software, Internet services, and wireline and wireless networking companies.¹ ITI is the voice of the high tech community, advocating policies that advance U.S. leadership in technology and innovation, open access to new and emerging markets, support e-commerce expansion, protect consumer choice, and enhance global competition.

¹ Public Notice, The Commission Seeks Public Comments in the 2006 Biennial Review of Telecommunications Regulations, CG Docket No. 06-152, EB Docket No. 06-153, IB Docket No. 06-154, ET Docket No. 06-155, WT Docket No. 06-156, WC Docket No. 06-157, FCC 06-115, Released August 10, 2006.

ITI wishes to clarify one point in its comments on the above action. There has been some confusion or speculation that our comments mean that we are in favor of elimination of ANSI C63.4 as a test procedure for measuring emissions from ITE. This is not the case. ITI fully supports the use of ANSI C63.4 for such testing, but is asking that a laboratory be given the ability to use the test methods called out in CISPR Publication 22 when those limits are selected.

Ghery S. Pettit, NCE

Chairman, ITI TC5

David A. Case NCE, NCT

Chairman, ITI TC8